How Systems Work; Jubilee Chorus at 8-Day Dry Meeting

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

A Salvation Army Band of 60 pieces, will play Sunday morning at 10:30 at the morning service at Des Plaines Camp Grounds, the service being a part of the eight-day Chicago-Land Dry Assembly. At 2:30 p. m. and 7:45 p. m., the famous James A. Mundy Chorists, colored jubilee singers, radio stars who have been featured at Soldier Field and Orchestra Hall, and who carried their great audiences by storm last Sunday at the Camp Ground will appear again in a feast of negro spirituals and other music of overwhelming power and charm. Admission is free. Offerings will be taken.

Before audiences of 3,500 persons, the Chicago-Land Dry Assembly of Illinois Conference associations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment, Sunday, the first of eight days' programs, to end next Sunday afternoon and evening with a great concert by Mundy's great chorus of jubilee singers, and speakers of unusual interest.

"Liquor Control in Canada" was explained last Sunday night by Ben Spence of Toronto, leading journalist and authority in this subject. No one liquor system in Canada exists, he declared; each province has its own. 5235 places sell liquor legally in that country, of which 531 are operated and owned by the governments; 4704 are privately owned and operated. Therefore President Nicholas Murray Butler's first announced principle of "Absolute Abolition of Private Traffic," alleged to apply in Canada is not true, Mr. Spence thus stated.

In Canada, manufacture is private and liquor is sold in part to the government for resale.

How Controlled
"The only time the Government controls liquor," said Mr. Spence, "is the brief time it is upon the shelves with the cork in. Government control ends when government possession ceases." He said a frank poke at the United States sentiment against government ownership and control of business, citing immense government utilities successfully and cheaply operated for the people of Canada, and then added: "The only business they want your government in, is the beneficent business of selling liquor."

"Black and White Kitty"
President Butler's other point, Mr. Spence then took up. "The Absolute Prohibition of the saloon," in which Canada was pointed out by Mr. Butler as a model for the United States.

"A public drinking place where liquor is sold for consumption upon the premises," is a saloon, Mr. Spence cited. "The saloon has not come back in name in Canada, but in fact they call them 'beer parlors.' A rose by any other name would smell as sweet and so would a black and white striped animal called a 'kitty.' There is the same smell of the same stuff that was sold before," referring to Canada's brief war-time prohibition regulations, "there is the same disgusting, obscene talk as before; they drink their liquor in chairs instead of at the brass rail, and there is a question as to how a man can hold the most, sitting or standing."

"There are 2530 places where liquor is sold for public consumption on the premises, and call them what you like, I call them saloons. The back rooms are just as vile now as they ever were in the saloons in the United States."

Effects of Quitting Prohibition
Starting with the abandoning of prohibition in 1923 and figured to 1930, Mr. Spence cited an increase of population in Canada of 10 per cent; increase in liquor consumption, 80 per cent; increase in absolute alcohol consumed, 105 per cent; increase in convictions for drunkenness, 51 per cent; increase in violations of liquor laws, 92 per cent; increase in vagrancy and disorderly cases, 115 per cent; increase in offenses against child-hood, 115 per cent; increase in other minor offenses, 153 per cent; increase in felonious assault, 91 per cent; increase in major crimes, 77 per cent; and bootlegging galore all over Canada. Mr. Spence admitted that not all of the increases of crime and drunkenness were due to a restoration of legalized liquor, but declared that the evidence is overwhelming that much of it is.

Drunkenness among women in Canada is especially on the increase, with devastating effect on the race, Mr. Spence declared. As for the old American saloons, as bad as they were, they were better than the present Canadian saloons in which much of the liquor is taken home and the drunkenness occurs at home, Mr. Spence believes.

A similar rate of liquor consumption as in Canada, in half the United States, would mean a drink bill of approximately $2,700,000,000 a year, he declared.

Beer and Whiskey

Increase of spirituous liquors has been greater than beer since prohibition was abolished in Canada, Mr. Spence showed "Beer drink (Continued on page 6)

Reports New Low Price Records for Farm Produce

Wm. Kirchhoff of Mt. Prospect, who returned home Friday from a western trip, brings back reports of low prices for farm produce that are about the worst reported so far. He stopped off at Minot, N. D., where he owns a farm. The price of grain is as much if not more than the cost of cutting and threshing it.

The prices for the current week were: Wheat 27c to 41c; Flax 65c; Rye 11c; Barley 12c; Oats 7c; Butter 10c; Eggs 8c; Potatoes 50c; Butterfat 15c.

Infant Welfare
Tag Day Brings
In Only $106.00

The Infant Welfare tag day held Tuesday last week, netted $106. Trains were met, and homes called on. Although the returns were much less than in former years, the people probably gave just as generously according to their present means. Mrs. C. I. Davis and Mrs. Thurman Dodge were in charge.

The Infant Welfare service is free to all mothers and babies in Arlington Heights, with advice for feeding and management of infants, a specialist being present from Chicago. These meetings are held the second Wednesday of each month at 2 o'clock. Miss Martha Jackson is community nurse.

The chairman of the committee extends thanks to the workers and donors.

Urge New Appraisal
Standards, Assessing
Personal Property

New appraisal standards for the assessment of personal property, as recommended by the Joint Committee on Real Estate Valuation, G. E. Fairweather, chairman, were explained to township assessors at Riverside, Tuesday night, by Mr. Fairweather. Assessor Gustav Heidorn of Wheeling township was among those attending.

These recommendations are included in a booklet circulated among assessors, banks, newspapers etc., throughout the county.

Explaining the need of such new standards, the commission states in part:

"A new quadriennial assessment of personal property is now in progress. A new assessment management in that management pervades the entire community. "Great numbers of taxpayers are filling their schedules for the first time. There is a great lack of information and understanding as to the basis upon which a full and frank cooperation between the taxpayer and the assessor should be had. The schedule form itself is confusing, and relies to an enormous extent on the taxpayer's knowledge of the entire community. "The booklets then makes detailed recommendations for appraisal of livestock, automobiles, pianos, merchandise on hand, money, credits, etc."

Winkie Is Buying
Old Tires This Week

Starting Thursday, Winkelman's Tire & Battery Shop is buying old tires. Winkie has not gone into the junk business. He is allowing a whole lot more for the tire he replaces than your car when he replaces them with new ones, than any junk man ever thought of offering. An announcement of the allowances are on page two of this issue. The offer only lasts Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Make the Old Car
Look Like New, with Wonderful Nu-Enamel

Does the old car need a new coat of paint? For the finest finish, economical, too—get two small cans of quick drying Nu-Enamel, and put it on yourself. It leaves no brush marks and leaves a smooth and durable gloss finish. 26 colors to choose from. A single coat will make your car looking like a new one that will last for years. Try this wonderful new finish and be proud of the looks of your car. Sold at the Northwest Nu-Enamel Company, 7 South Prospect avenue, Park Ridge; phone Park Ridge 726.

Lake Zurich Flower Show August Eleven

The second annual flower show of the Lake Zurich Community Women's Club will be held at the Evangelical parish hall, Thursday, August 11, from 2 to 10 p. m.

The committee in charge are Mrs. C. R. Weaver, chairman, assisted by Mesdames A. Prehn, H. Richter, George Understock, A. G. Schwermer, E. A. Iron, Misses Margaret Fink and Ruth Theis.

ARLINGTON
PARK RACING
ENDS SAT'DAY

Major Stake Last Day
Will Be $60,000
Futurity

Racing at Arlington Park is up to its final week with one of the nine major stakes to be decided Saturday, namely the $60,000 Arlington Futurity. The sport during the past four weeks at the big northside course has been declared by many patrons to have been the finest ever offered in Chicago and by far the best of the season in America.

Already there is $43,375 awaiting to be divided among the first four horses in the Arlington Futurity and the nominators of this rich attraction will add $1,000 to the pool, which will be the largest ever offered in a two-year-old race outside of New York and Maryland. Because of the size of the purse, the field is expected to be a large one, perhaps number as many as 20.

The probable favorite for the Futurity is Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Crowned Glory, winner of the Hyde Park Stakes and holder of the track record for five and one-half furlongs. Opposing this speedy colt may be Audley Farm's Seven up, W. R. Coe's Orphean and Ladyman, Dixiana's Pre War and High Complexion, Greentree Stable's Dynastic, Mereworth Stud's Swivel, J. W. Parrish's Isaiah, A. C. Schwartz's Tickety Tock, Three C's Stock Farm's Strideaway, C. W. Whitely's Royal Arabian and William Ziegler's Puchero.

The remaining program of attractions is as follows:

Thursday, July 28—North Shore Handicap, for three year olds and up at one mile.

Friday, July 29—Lake View Claiming Sweepstake for three-year-olds and up at one and a half miles.

Saturday, July 30—Arlington Futurity for two year old colts and fillies at six furlongs.

Pure Milk Group To Fight Against Recent Indictments

The indictments against 54 officers and members of the Pure Milk Association made July 15, by the McHenry County grand jury, based on charges of conspiracy and unlawful assembly, have been declared by W. C. McQueen, president of the Association, a challenge to the integrity of the Association and one that "will be fought out to the end."

The charges grew out of the "milk war" alleged to have occurred in McHenry County early in the spring of which time a number of farmers gathered together to protest against the shipment of cut-price milk.

Named with Secretary D. N. Goyer in the indictments, according to the Chicago Tribune, were officials of the Association's local units in Lake, McHenry, Will and Kane Counties in Illinois, and Walworth and Kenosha Counties in Wisconsin as well as all the members of the Board of Directors.

In meeting the charges against the Pure Milk Association, figures will be presented which clearly show that the farmers of McHenry County have received much more for milk as an organized group than they would have otherwise received. Statistics show that during 1931 farmers of McHenry County shipping milk to Chicago received $5,093,941 in cash for their basic milk marketed by the Pure Milk Association. Had they sold this same amount of milk on an open fluid milk market independently they could not have received at a maximum more than 35 cents over butterfat which would have given them approximately $2,884,074.

Had they sold the milk at condenser prices, as many Wisconsin dairymen are forced to do, their net income would have been approximately $800,000 less. Such a decrease in income would be directly reflected in tax-paying ability and purchasing power, it is believed by the farmers.

Commissioner Busse Is Expected Back This Week
From West. Camp Trip

The Busse "covered wagon" is expected home this week after a trip to Colorado with a stop at the Black Hills on the way home. A phone call was received Monday evening from the latter place, stating that they would start for home on Wednesday morning. Their "covered wagon" is a 7-passenger Buick car, but they are getting as much kick out of their trip as any pioneer. They are camping all way and the young fellows say that the commissioner is as spry as they and insists upon taking in all of the sights.

Those in the party are Wm. and Geo. Busse and three grandsons, Harvey, William III, and Wilbert.

APPLE RIVER CANYON TO BE STATE PARK

The purchase of Apple River canyon near Galena, Ill., for a State Park, was officially approved this week by Governor Emmerson.

FARMERS ENLIST TO HELP BRIDGE ECONOMIC GULF

FARM BUREAU HELPS PAUL RADER'S PANTRY FEED THE NEEDY
O. G. Barrett, at right, getting first hand information from Dr. Paul Rader in the kitchen at the Chicago Gospel Tabernacle, as to the salvaging of surplus farm food for needy families this winter.

Surplus farm crops in Cook county, richest agricultural county in Illinois, are to be salvaged and distributed among Chicago's needy families this winter, it is being announced widely by O. G. Barrett, county farm adviser, as well as by broadcasts over WLS.

"At the invitation of Dr. Paul Rader, evangelist of the Chicago Gospel Tabernacle, the Cook County farm bureau has pledged its complete support to Dr. Rader's food salvaging program and will help him gather the crop surpluses for canning at Paul Rader's Pantry, 825 Barry avenue," Barrett states.

Barrett, speaking for a special committee of the farm bureau, lauds Dr. Rader's program and explains the merits of his plan.

Wasteful System

"The condition which we see on all sides is nothing short of ridiculous," he said. "I refer to the fact that within the borderlines of Chicago there are thousands of thousands of needy hungry people, while just outside the borderlines there are acres and acres of growing produce which will never find a market. There are truck loads after truck loads brought to the market and for lack of a sale are returned to go on the dump heap."

"It seems that Dr. Rader's approach to this problem is the nearest practical of anything that we have so far witnessed, and our organization of sympathetic farmers stands ready to cooperate to the fullest extent in making this worthy project the success which we all hope it will be."

Cook a Farming County
There are 3,348 farmers in Cook county, Barrett points out, of which 1,293 are members of the farm bureau.

"Whereas most people think of Cook county as the seat of metropolitan Chicago, there is greater gross agricultural production in this county than in any other county in the state," he asserted. "We all know that agriculture is depressed; that farmers' produce is not selling at prices anywhere near what we would like to see and that much of it is not finding a market at any price. It is the utilizing of this produce which may be turned to a good cause that we are thinking about, and we feel sure that our farmers will go to bat on this proposition as effectively and with as unified efforts as they already have proven themselves capable of in tackling other problems."

Committee

Associated with Barrett on the farm bureau committee are Frank Diekmann, Dalton; Ezra McCaughy, Palos Park; and Harry Schiff, Northfield. By personal solicitation and radio appeals, this committee will attempt to gather tons of farm produce throughout Cook county and deliver it to Paul Rader's Pantry, where a staff of volunteer workers is on hand to clean, cook, and can the vegetables for distribution this winter.

A room at the Randolph street market was opened Wednesday, where vegetables that producers are not able to dispose of otherwise for relief work for nominal sums instead of being taken out and dumped. The Paul Rader organization added ten more cookers this week, thus doubling their daily canning capacity, to take care of the supply thus increased.

In addition to the Cook county activities, Dr. Rader is organizing "canning camps" at other points throughout the middle west and expects to prepare at least 6,000,000 cans of produce for Chicago's needy.

MONEYMAKING
BY CHURCHES
DISAPPROVED

Evangelical Women In Convention Discuss
Ethical Phases

(By a Member)

The meeting of the Arlington Heights Federation of Evangelical Women's Organizations held at St. Paul's church, Elgin, Tuesday, was very enjoyable and helpful. Several societies had exceptionally good attendance, the registration being 169.

The program offered three outstanding numbers. The morning session was devoted to Christian Stewardship and Christian Citizenship. This year's reading course book, "Church Profit-Making," by A. Agar was presented in the form of a book review by the department chairman of the federation, Mrs. A. F. Potratz. It was clearly shown that the only correct and Christian way to support the church is by direct giving. All manner of money making for the church were discouraged as being unchristian, improper or unfair.

Mrs. E. Foster, the Christian citizenship department chairman of the St. Paul's society of Palatine, Ill., presented the July topic, "My Christian Obligation to my Country." She emphasized the greatness of the extent of the work of Christian Citizenship and appealed to all women to do their utmost in the performance of these Christian duties for the welfare of the home, the community, the country and humanity in general.

During the noon-hour, a playlet, "How We Ran Our Church Bazaar" was given by the ladies of the local society at Elgin. It was educational and aptly illustrated the teaching of the book review in the morning session. All enjoyed the humor contained and especially the old fashioned characters represented.

The afternoon address "Blessings of the Depression," was given by Dr. E. H. Hohmann, of Chicago. He said it is necessary to return to God and come to him in humility and repentance as to our Heavenly Father and to consider our fellow men as brothers and sisters.

There were two beautiful vocal solos rendered. Mrs. Hilton, a contralto and Mrs. Post, a soprano, Miss Fern Finrock, organist, contributed greatly to the delight of the listeners.

Three-Quarters of Mile of Pavement
In on Barr. Road*(Barrington Review)

Approximately three-quarters of a mile of pavement has been laid on the Barrington road north of the Algonquin road, and road crew officials expect a mile of paving will be installed by the end of this week.

The paving crew started pouring concrete last Saturday at the Algonquin intersection working north towards Barrington. By August 1, the road will be completed to the Dundee road intersection and by August 7 to the village limits of Barrington, unless an unusual amount of rainy weather prevails to slow up the work.

Construction work has not been as rapid as was anticipated. Grading through several peat bogs south of Barrington has held back the program.

A grading crew is to start work this week on the Barrington road between Higgins and U. S. highway 20 (Lake street). That part of the road about 4 1/2 miles long, will be finished by September 1, according to present plans. A two mile stretch of the road between Higgins road and Algonquin road may not be done this year. It has been held up pending a dispute over right of way. The full route from Lake street to Barrington, as planned for paving, is 10 miles long.

The Barrington road extends north of town only to highway 22. Lake county surveyors have laid out a route, for possible 1933 construction, straight north to Wauconda.

Grandmother Finds
Ride in Zeppelin
Is Just The Thing

Mrs. Ernestine Wickman and grandson, Wilfred of Barrington, visited Pal-Waukee airport Sunday and went up in the Goodyear blimp.

Mrs. Wickman says that she enjoyed the trip even more than any airplane ride. The smoothness of the ride made it especially enjoyable. Mrs. Wickman has felt for some time that such a ride was the only thing worth doing that she had not had a part in. Now that she has had a Zeppelin ride there is nothing more worth hoping for and she is happy.

"Alls Well" Says Judge
Kopplin, "Roomers Pay Cash, Escape Trouble"

Where a year ago Judge Kopplin was busy issuing warrants for race track visitors who sought to jump board bills, the judge says that this year he has not had a complaint. After the experiences of last year, the owners had learned to demand cash for rooms, which saves trouble for everyone.

Former Palatine
Pastor Passes
at Palatine

Rev. John Droegmueller, 88 years old, passed away last Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Chas. Schering, Palatine. Deceased was engaged in active Lutheran pastoral work 42 years, serving Palatine fifteen years of that period. Rev. Droegmueller was an unusual man but only his closest friends and relatives probably appreciated his true worth.

He was of a very quiet disposition. He was faithful to his church and beloved in his family. He took no active part in public affairs, but he was much interested as an on-looker in the happenings of the nation, state and municipality. He was often seen upon the streets of Palatine although he was nearing his 88th birthday. He was ill only a few days and was able to attend church services two weeks prior to his passing.

Obituary

Rev. John Droegmueller was born March 26, 1844, in Boedendstedt, district of Uelzen, Hanover, Germany. April 2, 1844, he was baptized at Gerdau and was confirmed there in 1858. His parents were Henry and Engel Droegmueller. His father was a wagonwright. After five years of military service, in 1867, he entered the preparatory school at Hermannsburg. His intention was to be a missionary to the heathen Africa. But God willed otherwise. In 1870 he emigrated to America, where he entered the practical division of the Lutheran Concordia Seminary at St. Louis. In 1872 he was graduated. During his forty-two years of active ministry he served the congregations at Nokomis, Arenzville, and Palatine, Illinois, at the last mentioned place fifteen years, and Denham and Bass Lake, Indiana. During his pastorate he taught school for 23 years.

In 1914 he resigned from office and was since that time a communicant member of Immanuel congregation at Palatine, Illinois. He was married twice. His first wife was Miss Marie Hornbostel. She passed away February 8, 1899. Two of his children died in early infancy. His second wife was Mrs. Clara Stute, nee Hanf. She passed away August 26, 1928.

He died of old age July 22, having reached an age of 88 years, three months, and 26 days. He leaves to mourn one daughter, Mrs. Charles Schering, one son in law, Charles Schering, two grandchildren, two brothers in law, two sisters in law, and many other relatives.

The funeral services were held Monday, July 25, at the Charles Schering home and at the Immanuel Lutheran church. Pastor Daniel Pellot preached the German and Pastor W. G. Fichtel of West Northfield, Illinois, the English sermon. Interment was held in the Palatine Lutheran cemetery.

Depot to Be Open
Sun., New Round
Trip Tickets on Sale

As an accommodation next Sunday only, the Arlington Heights depot, C. & N. W., will be open from 8 to 5 o'clock. People checking out of town after the race track season, will find this a convenience.

Also August commutation tickets will be on sale. Shopper's tickets, formerly for one day only, hereafter will be good for going one day and returning the next, according to Station Master Lange.

Walther League
Convention Held
In Los Angeles

Approximately 1500 delegates are attending the 40th international convention of the Walther league, held in Los Angeles this week. The keynote address, "Be Ye Ready to Every Good Work," was delivered by Rev. A. R. Kretz, pastor of Chicago. Problems of Bible study, education, recreation, and financing for the various Walther League projects are being discussed.

The next international convention will be at Chicago, during a Century of Progress exposition, and will start July 16. E. J. Gallmeyer, post master at Fort Wayne, Ind., is elected president.

Three Take Auto
Trip to Boston,
White Mountains

Mr. Walter Boireau, accompanied by Rev. H. A. Kossack of the First Presbyterian church, and Mr. Walter Sieburg, Arlington Heights druggist, left Tuesday for a motor trip to Philadelphia, Boston, White and Green mountains of New England, Montreal, and back through Canada, Mr. Boireau will visit relatives around Boston, his former home. All went in eager anticipation of the interesting scenes and great time they were to enjoy.

Dr. Louise Koester

Dr. Louise Koester, Mt. Prospect physician, has moved her office from the Louis Busse building on the Northwest highway to 221 Owen street, three blocks east of her former location.

TAX SALES
START, GRACE
TO END MONDAY

Week's Extension of Time
Arranged by County
Judge

While the four-payment plan for 1930 taxes continues in effect, the date for tax sales of property was extended from last Monday until Aug. 1, it was arranged by County Judge Jarecki. Some 7,000 or 8,000 persons attempted to gain access to the offices of County Treasurer McDonough, and it was impossible to serve them all.

Complying with the law requiring tax sales on July 25th, ten pieces of property in Barrington township were offered for sale, and more will be so offered each day. If any owners of such properties wish to redeem them by making partial payments sale can be vacated.

The reduction in the office help in the county treasurer's office so that less crowds can be handled, is one reason the extension of time has been given.

Town of Wheeling Gets Whole Sum of $7.00 in Delinquent Tax Funds

When the county treasurer began making remittances to taxing bodies every two weeks, Supervisor Chas. Grandt of Wheeling township thought that part of his worries were at an end, but listen to this. There is a thistle law and it is obligatory upon the township to see that thistles upon highways are cut. Accordingly certain men were hired for the work. The supervisor expected to pay from the remittances from the county treasurer. The thistle cutting was completed last week. Monday morning, Mr. Grandt received a check from the treasurer for about $7, to be divided between the road and bridge fund and the township fund. The laborers are waiting for their money and they need it badly. In the meantime these are many hundreds of parcels of property upon which taxes have not been paid. The county treasurer has extended the time for partial payment until August 1st. Those who have delayed still have until Saturday to make a payment of one fourth of the full amount, which in turn will mean that the Wheeling township fund will receive its share and our thistle cutters can get money with which to buy food.

Robbery Attempt Is Frustrated

An attempt to break in the Winkelman Tire and Battery Shop, on East Davis street in Arlington Heights, about 2 a. m. Tuesday, was frustrated by the sharp resistance of Henry Gaere who resides between the road and bridge fund and the township fund. The laborers are waiting for their money and they need it badly. In the meantime these are many hundreds of parcels of property upon which taxes have not been paid. The county treasurer has extended the time for partial payment until August 1st. Those who have delayed still have until Saturday to make a payment of one fourth of the full amount, which in turn will mean that the Wheeling township fund will receive its share and our thistle cutters can get money with which to buy food.

Miss Arlington Is Spruced Up in New
Raiment and Paint

There may be many an Arlington Heights Miss who has new clothes and has purchased a new vanity case, but the "Miss Arlington" of Winkelman Tire & Battery Shop is all spruced up when she is driven up to your door with that loan baiter or new friend, the neighbors will think you have a classy caller at your place. For those who have never been introduced to "Miss Arlington," we will say that she is a motorcycle with side car, whose avocation is that of a nurse to stalled automobiles. She wears a blue uniform. If you want to know more, call Arlington Heights 349.

Community Church Announces Preacher Next Sunday, 31st

On the next Sunday morning, July 31st, the Community church of Mount Prospect will be privileged to hear the Rev. Wanzel Hull Brunelle, who is assistant minister at the Normal Park Presbyterian church, Chicago. His topic, taken from the 16th chapter of Romans, will be, "I Am Not Ashamed of the Gospel of Christ." All of the people of the community are invited to come and worship. Plan to make the Community church your church home.

V. F. W. Auxiliary

As we have one meeting a month during the summer, our next one will take place August 5, in the Community Hall at 8:00 p. m., which is next week Friday.

Our National Pres., Mrs. Dora E. Raffensperger, has announced that at the end of May we passed the 200 mark for new Auxiliaries and there being still three months to go before the National encampment, this has been shown to be a record in spite of the depression.

The National home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., is now equipped with a new swimming pool, which the children are now making use of. More than a thousand citizens attended the memorial service for Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., recently sponsored by Post No. 1160 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. in conjunction with a mass meeting publicly protesting against organized crime. Commander D. M. Blankenship, of Stonewall Jackson Post No. 1160 V. F. W., presented at the service speakers who urged that drastic measures be taken in a campaign against crime.

By command of Major General Parker of the United States Army, Sixth Corps Area, Chicago, two boys at the V. F. W. National Home are to be admitted to the C. M. T. C. at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Mich., this year. The boys are Charles Clarence Barnett and Wayne Aldenbuck. They are the first proteges of the home to seek summer training in the C. M. T. C.

American Legion Auxiliary Notes

Mrs. H. W. Carlson of 307 South Wille Street was hostess to the ladies of the Mount Prospect Legion Auxiliary last Monday evening, July 25. This was the only meeting for July and although several of the ladies were away on vacation there was still a good representative group in attendance.

The State and National conventions being scheduled for the near future, discussions during the business session were centered mainly around convention topics. The local unit will be represented by delegates Mrs. Bernhard and Mrs. Kent, and alternates Mrs. Luckner and Miss Frey. A number of the ladies are planning to attend the State convention at Danville, Illinois, on August 15 and 16.

It was decided to dispense with the Board meeting for the month of August and only one meeting will be held by the Unit, which will be on the fourth Monday of the month.

The ladies of the unit were pleased to learn that Mrs. Anne Bernhard, their president, has been elected Ninth District chaplain for the coming year.

A round of bridge was played during the social hour and the prizes were won by Mrs. Gehring and Mrs. Kent.

A most refreshing luncheon was then served by the delightful hostess, Mrs. Carlson. Mrs. Frances Gould received a special citation at the recent pre-convention luncheon of the Cook County Auxiliary, held at the Medinah Athletic Club, for her outstanding record as membership chairman of the local unit.

The Ninth District meeting held at Palatine last Thursday evening, July 21, was attended by Mrs. Bernhardt, Kent, Gould, Luckner and Miss Frey. At this meeting Mrs. Florence Armstrong, directress of the Ninth District, was chosen delegate to the National Convention at Portland, Oregon.

Seven chocolate cakes were taken to the Veterans at Pershing hospital, Elgin, Thursday, July 14th, by a delegation of ladies consisting of Mrs. Bernhard, Mrs. Weiss, Mrs. Kent and Mrs. Gould.

462 new units of the American Legion Auxiliary have been chartered this year, according to a report from national headquarters. The organization of the new units has brought the total number of units in the Auxiliary up to 7,911.

Membership applications from 63,240 new members have been received at national headquarters of the American Legion Auxiliary within the past twelve months. Membership applications for 491,496 Auxiliary members are now in the national headquarters files. Nearly 400,000 of these members are in good standing for 1932.

Mrs. Frederick C. Williams, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, will address Auxiliary members over the radio Saturday, July 30, the local auxiliary unit has been informed. Mrs. Williams will speak over Station WIBO, Chicago, at six p. m. central daylight time. Auxiliary departments which have secured their 1932 membership quotas will be asked to report the fact by wire to Mrs. Williams during the program. The broadcast will follow a successful broadcast made by the Auxiliary's national president, June 29, when the departments of South Carolina, Delaware, Kentucky and Montana reported their membership quotas reached. The number of telephone calls, telegrams and letters received following the first broadcast led to the scheduling of the second program. A prize will be awarded to the First Department reporting its membership quotas reached by July 30.

"Poison Gas"

A "poison gas" wave is menacing the return of confidence and prosperity in America. False rumors, sly whispers and idle gossip, have hung like a blight over certain communities of the country.

Some of our strongest institutions have been subject to insidious peace-time "gas attacks." There is good reason to believe that many of these untrue reports have been started by persons unfriendly to America.

Forewarned is forearmed. The responsibility rests upon every one of us to be wide awake and on guard against vague flying rumors of every kind. Let us not be too quick to accept them. Let us trace them down, verify them if we can, or prove them false. The finger of suspicion should be laid upon anyone who repeats a harmful story not backed by solid facts.

Beware of "poison gas."

WHEELING

Are you all set for the Fifth Annual Wheeling Day, July 30th? We hope you have invited all your old time friends, and make it a real home-coming. Festivities will begin with a ball game in the afternoon. Wheeling baseball team will play the Long Grove boys. Don't forget to take some tickets on the Electric Mix-Master on display in the drug-store.

The Eastern Star Chapter held their annual picnic in the forest preserve, on Tuesday, July 19th. Even though the heat was intense, they report having a very good time.

The Young Peoples' club of the Presbyterian church enjoyed an outing to Bang's lake, Wauconda, on Thursday, July 21. After several hours of swimming and other water sports, a picnic lunch was spread under the trees. Heavy showers shortened the outing somewhat, but all agreed they were most welcome as a relief from the intense heat.

Wheeling Baseball Team played at Buffalo Grove last Sunday. They won with a score of 11 to 2.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Truth" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 24.

The Golden Text was, "He who bleareth himself in the earth shall bless himself in the God of truth; and he that sweareth in the earth shall swear by the God of truth" (Isaiah 65:16).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O Lord, thou art my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things; thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth" (Isaiah 25:1).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals try to believe without understanding Truth; yet God is Truth" (p. 312).

Mrs. Williamson left on Friday, for Nebraska, where she will spend the rest of the summer with one of her daughters.

We are glad to report that Marshall Baling's broken limb is mending nicely. He was removed to his home on Saturday.

Messrs. William Wiest, Frank Welflin, Doc. Gieseke and John Schmidt attended the double-header baseball game played at Cub's Park last Sunday.

Adeline Vierk left last week for a short vacation with relatives.

James Bailey and his mother have moved into the flat above the Royal Blue Store.

Old time friends of Gladys Fritsch Glatz will be interested to hear that she is the mother of a son, born just recently.

We are told that Miss Margaret Coleman was married last Thursday evening to Mr. R. Truelsen. They have our best wishes.

Mr. Ernest Kruse and children, Eloise and Elwin motored to Grand Rapids, Mich., on Sunday.

The widening of the river bridge on Dundee road has been started. At present they are building a temporary foot bridge.

We regret to say that Mr. Ben Stryker is confined to his home with a serious illness. A nurse has been secured to care for him.

Real Hard Task

Combining business with pleasure is all very well, but a much harder thing to do is to combine business with profit.

Mount Prospect Whips St. Luke's

Sunday, July 24th, St. Luke's baseball team travelled to Mount Prospect to give the home boys a "good rousing," but finally after nine innings of baseball, went back to Chicago having won "good rousing" to their own credit. Mount Prospect defeated St. Luke's by a score of 13 to 3.

Lemke, the Mt. Prospect pitcher allowed 7 hits and struck out 14 men. Mt. Prospect took the lead in the first inning and were ahead throughout the game. Mt. Prospect got 13 hits off three St. Luke's pitchers. The leading hitters were Kirchhoff and V. Soensen, with 3 hits each; Kirchhoff getting 3 singles; V. Soensen, a home-run, a triple and a double.

This win puts Mount Prospect a little farther ahead in the league standing as Pilgrim had no game scheduled.

Next Sunday, Mt. Prospect travels to Chicago to play St. Luke's again. The game will be played at Winemac Park, Damen ave. and Foster st. at 1:00 p. m.

St. Luke's said they were going to even it up with the boys for Sunday's defeat, but again they say, "Let them try it." Let's have some boosters out to see the game. The time is 1:00 p. m.—Place Winemac Park, Damen ave. and Foster st.

State Supreme Court Reverses Jarecki Decision

The Cisar case, in which county Judge Jarecki had declared the 1928 and 1929 assessments void, will be taken to the United States Supreme Court, it is declared, following the making public Tuesday, this week, of the State Supreme Court's decision finding the assessments valid. Judge Jarecki had found the assessments invalid in view of the failure to assess some sixteen billions of personal property while the tax burden was loaded on real estate.

The State Supreme court directs the County court to enter judgment against all the tax delinquents, with interest and costs for both 1928 and 1929 taxes. The amount of the judgement is approximately $70,000,000.

Milk Association Men Attend School Of Cooperation

Attending the American Institute of Cooperation held in Durham, New Hampshire week of August 1, are Gerald Dickson, Joe Wein, John Knox and A. M. Kral, all of whom will represent the Pure Milk Association of Chicago.

Mr. Dickson has been invited to speak to those assembled at the afternoon session August 3, on the subject, "Centralized Control of Primary and Secondary Markets." Mr. Dickson is the submarket manager in charge of the suburban markets operated by the Pure Milk Association in Illinois.

The party will go by motor to Durham. Enroute they will visit the offices of the leading dairy cooperatives located in the east such as the ones serving Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, etc.

The American Institute of Cooperation convenes annually to discuss cooperative marketing of all farm products. Membership in the Association is held by the organized growers of practically every farm commodity including fruit, vegetable, livestock, and dairy products.

Would You Like to be an "Olympic Winner?"

The great athlete who has the skill and endurance to go into the finals of the Olympic games is almost always a man who has reduced to a science the art of eliminating waste motion and useless effort.

That, too, is the secret of thrift. Thrift is simply skill in spending. Build your financial strength as the Olympic winner builds his. Use brains and skill in your spending. Make your dollars go further and a few will do the work of many with the same result.

Exercise your skill in thrift in building up your account in this bank.

OBSERVER'S NOTES

The old time religion
For body and soul
Now joins the farmers
In relief control:
The earnest Evangel,
With sons of the land
For helping the starving
Joins heart and hand
The old time Religion,
The old farm home,
To help needy brothers,
Here they come!

Depression—found no place in our minds when we read about that splendid movement. It's just like Paul Rader—and moreover—it's just like our Farm Adviser. It's a good thing to feed the hungry before you begin to ask him about the condition of his soul.

Some may object to Paul Rader's style of preaching—but none can dispute his sincerity or the fact that he has led many from darkness to find the true light. Gladness for this fine, helpful movement cheers our hearts.

Wouldn't it be fine if we could have a year of jubilee when money obligations were outlawed? Only those of us who have struggled along without indulging in luxuries on the partial payment plan—or the pay in installments would be ashamed to claim our own from the less fortunate. Yet we would love to see those now in danger of losing homes get a seven, or seven times seven year release.

Debt is a heavy burden. Let us all remember when we pray: "forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors," to be toward our debtors even as we ask the Lord to deal with us. Those who torture us with unpaid bills, no one doubts owing them. Unless we pay, the world of business cannot move on. We see that all about us.

Just a little reminder here—then I will move on to more cheerful topics. We have been reminded of so many who have done great things for our town. Yet there is a factor not often enough reckoned on (?) the home town editor and those who assist him in keeping our town on the map. Who boosts your business, your social organizations, your churches and schools; is it not those who write about all your doing before and after, and who takes the risk of getting paid even at "cut rates"?

What is the factor in this town has done the most to keep wrong down; Done most to boost women and men? That one who wields the pen.

Who is that one who says the most in sonnet, prose in ads, or toast; Who strives to set wrong right again? That one who bravely wields the pen.

Who has made sinking business float From too much ballast eased the boat, Turned blackest scandals—into white Made toad stools mushrooms overnight? That one who dares to write.

Who has upheld our home town trade Hoisted, and foisted to high grade Covered weak places—once again? The one who dares to wield the pen.

Who that so often does advise You business men to advertise, Names you progressive business men Gives much free boosting now and then— With a free booter's daring pen?

The home town paper built with pride— Is your debt to it set aside? Do you think of the editor when You fail to pay him once again?

He must pay debts to other men. Alas for those who wield the pen! Down on the oft repeated word—"The pen is mightier than the sword!"

Let me tell you that's a great, grand opportunity for u. who are nearby and able to attend at least some of the sessions of that convention at DesPlaines camp ground this week and Sunday. A most interesting corps of speakers. Wish I might hear every one of them. And there are those who think prohibition has accomplished nothing; has no friends.

It seems far back to the years when that bright young lawyer Eugene Chalin, permitted his name to go on the ticket for president, even when he well knew he was sacrificing a fine career by giving time and talent to the cause of prohibition. Why prohibition has in its ranks today some of our greatest men and women; our deepest thinkers and wisest educators.

In our state Welfare Magazine, read only this week what one of our learned Psychiatrists says of the effect of alcohol on mental disorders. He says in all too many cases, it affects the brain, and leads to mental ruin. This learned doctor also says, the delusion, our doctors used to be under, in regard to giving wines and alcoholic stimulants to patients, as a means of restoring strength, was not only harmful, but in no way helpful, as it only served to dull the nerves, and the after affect was perilous. Why was the teaching of all this taken out of our schools?

Hoping these vital questions will be discussed and sent out from this coming convention next week; beg pardon for mention of a subject so "dry," yet not wholly unimportant. Hear the airplanes sailing over us; wonder if the pilots have had more than a day of real practice in controlling a plane in the air. To know the way of the wind, in upper strata. Who hath the knowledge? The scripture tells us, "The Wind bloweth where it listeth," and no man knoweth whence it cometh, nor whither it goeth."

The wind God shouts along the sky Down through the earth his loud defy,
"Ye creatures of the finite mind,
"Track you the pathway of the wind?"
Hear the wind-god—will you, no!
Flap aside your frantic wings, o ho!
Fly forth in pride for one brief hour.
Gyrate in glee, toy of my power!
For soon my minions, mad with mirth
Shall dash you helpless to the earth;
There, bound by flesh, your time to stay,
Unknown yet "Where of the way",
Defiant of your puny will,
"The wind blows where it listeth," still.

Since the above was written many things have been learned about air travel; about upper and lower currents; about head winds—and fierce winds. Those wise in air travel will acknowledge there is yet much to be learned. The wind seems as fickle as mankind and "bloweth where it listeth," still. We are appalled at the inexperienced, daring "unknowning" ones, venture too often to their destruction.

Here I go! Venturing on these dry, uninteresting topics, when the air is "just ringing with anthems of joy and praise. Such a cool refreshing air; a cool night in which to rest and gather new strength and courage, even to pass through another siege of 90 degrees of heat. Mrs. Russel arriving here from St. Petersburg, Florida, Sunday, says to be sure these first days of her visit are extremely hot. Yet we know it will soon change, in her home the heat gives no let up for this month or next.

We are thinking of our friends and neighbors this bright morning, so cheery with flowers and bird song everywhere. How the hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Olson are only saddened by the joy of this since the joy of their life has been taken away, in the going into the larger life of their bright promising son. Yet we know they do not mourn as

Announcement

In announcing the advent of Foot Health Week at our store Aug. 2 to 8, we believe we are rendering an unusual public service of outstanding interest and importance to every citizen of our community—the first exposition of its kind ever undertaken in this city.

We have spared no expense or effort to make this event one of real educational value and benefit to every individual who visits our establishment during this six-day celebration.

Foot Health vitally concerns the well being and happiness of every man, woman and child. Few people are so fortunate as to go through life with perfect feet and freedom from foot ailments that impair mental and physical efficiency. One of the purposes of Foot Health Week is to show how this can be done. It is a fact that seven out of ten people tested and analyzed, have acquired foot deficiencies which require attention and correction, either through properly fitted shoes or appliances.

As the foot comfort specialists of this community, in harmony with the wide-spread interest and increasing attention now given to Foot Health as a matter of personal efficiency by leading corporations, insurance companies, medical authorities, schools, hospitals and guardians of public health, we feel it is our duty and responsibility to sponsor this local movement in Foot Health education. Our entire store, therefore, during the coming week will be offered as headquarters for demonstrations.

You, your family and friends, are cordially invited to view the instructive exhibits on display.

All who attend, including children, may obtain without charge the modern, scientific test and analysis for determining foot health and efficiency, which includes imprints of both feet on our Pedo-graph Machine.

Don't miss this opportunity to learn from a foot comfort expert, the condition of your own feet—whether normal or abnormal; and how your foot troubles, if any, can be quickly and permanently relieved.

those who have no hope, who know "There is no death, what seems so is transition." "This life of mortal breath, is but the gateway to the land Elysian—Whose portals we call death." We do believe that bright youth has only graduated into a higher advancement to go on and on in knowledge.

They pass down the Valley of Silence
In a calm so still, so complete
While we long, in grief that is voiceless
To follow the way of their feet.

They enter that Valley of Silence
Beyond the shadows that creep
Over, somber statue-like marbles,
The motionless symbols of sleep.

They pass down the Valley of Silence
That guardeth the gateway of Peace
To that city where sorrow and sighing
In gladness, forever shall cease.

Our Lord went the way of that silence
Dispelling its gloom and despair,
His promise "I go on before you
Your way and your place to prepare."

They pass down the Valley of Silence
Through the gate, to that City of Peace,
Where all tears, all sorrow and sighing
In joy of His Presence shall cease.

Some time ago, when so many were inclined to think when a bank failed and they had lost their money savings, they had lost all life held for them. Knowing this, and with a desire to show the fallacy of such a belief, to tell of the far greater possessions we still hold, to comfort with a truer philosophy of life—and prevent unreasoning blame falling on our bankers and friends. It was published and sent to some of our college professors and educators, by one of Observer's valued friends. The comments were so comforting from those of high qualification to judge of its merit. And the request for further copies of the article have moved me to have it republished.

"The bank has failed," so runs the tale.

But tell us, friend, what bank you mean?

Not friendship's bank? that cannot fail—

Its stock is firm—standing serene.

"The bank has failed," they cry,
"Alas!"
It held all of our treasured store,
That cry excites the seething mass;
There is a bank means so much more.

The bank of love eternal, strong;
That holds the treasures of the heart;
The old time ties, a prayer, a song
The ties that none can rend apart.

The bank that holds material things—
The wealth of silver and of gold—
Riches that all too soon "take wings"
And fly beyond man's power to hold.

The things that perish and decay,
Too oft the price of a good name,
Material things that pass away
Leaving regret and bitter shame.

"The bank has failed," it held the price
Of toil and stress and bitter tears;
It led the way of sacrifice
Through the long path of hope and fears.

This stir in me no depths of grief
Though I will not discount the loss;
The bank that holds my firm belief,
My faith in God, makes that seem dross.

My faith in God, my faith in friends,
The ties of kin and memories dear,
Where joy and sadness shade and blend
Into life's treasures I revere.

Earth's banks may fail—their doors may bar,
Yet I can joy and sing a song.
I know where my hearts treasures are
And knowing this I jog along.

The friends I love—the trust I hold,
The mansions where our loved ones are—
Treasures beyond the price of gold,
Life's morning hope its evening star.

AMBITION
ACHIEVEDEnglish Style Mortuary of Lauterburg & Oehler
Wins Wide Notice

Editor's Note: The following article, accompanied by a picture of the entrances for the outside cover, and a full page of views of the beautiful Lauterburg & Oehler Home for Funerals in Des Plaines, appeared in the July Number of the National Funeral Director, and is here printed by permission.

Although it is located a scant two blocks from the business center, the funeral home of the Lauterburg & Oehler company, in Des Plaines, Illinois, wears about it an air of seclusion. The lot upon which it stands is almost triangular in shape and streets pass by it, both in front and down one side. The arrangement of the entrances, however, which are set into a deep angled recess, and the picturesque massing of foliage and shrubbery, remove the structure from any suggestion of a public building. There is something about the soft red brick and the cool limestone that seems to breathe the mellowness of age. It is as though these cold materials have sensed something of the old English spirit which architect, builder and decorator have endeavored to instill into them.

Without actually being aware of any definite reaction, the visitor approaching and entering the mortuary, only a few months old, has a sense of being associated with something warm and venerable.

The building as completed, represents an investment of nearly $100,000. It was designed by Pond and Pond, Martin and Lloyd, architects, Chicago. The architecture is a modern development of a combination of old English domestic and ecclesiastical styles. This influence may be traced in exterior details—the doorways and the windows—as well as in the handling of the general form of the building.

The mortuary is equipped to handle two distinct types of funerals. Those who desire a service in which the religious note is stressed, have at hand a spacious chapel. Those who wish to preserve the home atmosphere may make use of the handsomely appointed stateroom. The chapel opens directly off the entrance lobby, which is furnished with hand-carved Gothic benches and throne chairs. The floor is of irregular tile, and the lighting fixtures and trim are in the same vein. Two pairs of double doors give access to the chapel. Here, again the warm wooden paneling, light-hued windows and the beamed ceiling impress one as having been lifted bodily from the church of some great English estate. An ingenious wooden screen arrangement, behind the catafalque and the lectern, provides space for the organ console and the musicians. A separate outside door gives access and exit from this space.

The stateroom opens from a short hallway, at the further end of the lobby. The furniture here is of the more modern home type, although the high windows, the blind niche, and the snacious hearth still suggest an old-world atmosphere. Just beyond the entrance to this room, a short flight of stairs leads to a somewhat higher level upon which the floor of the remaining rooms are placed. On the right hand, the first door leads into a small hallway into which three rooms open. The rear-ward one is the women's toilet and lavatory. Forward of it is the door to the stateroom, and foremost of all is the entrance to the family room.

Family Room Arrangement
Due to the higher elevation of this room, the grill which opens into the chapel affords a complete view. The family, on the other hand, is completely screened from observation. The remaining rooms on this floor include the office, designed and furnished for efficiency and comfort, the men's toilet and washroom, and a completely equipped preparation room, tiled and well ventilated. The show room, with its well selected line of caskets, may be entered either directly from the office, or from the rear hall. There is an exit from it through the rear vestibule. This also serves for entrance and access to the apartments on the second floor. Sleeping quarters are provided there for the mortuary assistants.

Basement Layout
A stairway leads down at the left of the rear hall, towards the English basement, adjacent to which is the elevator. Halfway down the stairs, a door opens into the garage. A complete outfit of rolling stock is housed here, sufficient to care for the needs of the mortuary, as well as to assist in caring for the needs of another establishment, conducted by Mr. Oehler and his partner, Arthur Lauterburg, at Arlington Heights. A court, at the entrance to the garage, opens into an alley which gives access to the side streets.

There are two major storage rooms in the basement, one at the north front, and the other at the south-center. The boiler and fuel rooms adjoin at the north-east corner. A morgue with storage vaults, a second and larger preparation of postmortem room, are provided and a large, well-furnished room, styled the inquest room, which may also be used as a rest room for employees and as a smoking room for men visitors.

Details of Music and Decoration

Among the outstanding details of the mortuary is the two-manual Geneva pipe organ, with electrified action. Lauterburg & Oehler funerals have won recognition due to the excellence of musical setting. The arched windows are fitted with plain stained glass, which softens the entering light but does not obscure details. Throughout the lower floor these windows are hung with draperies of imported red velvet from rods of hand-wrought iron. Draw curtains are fitted under these drapes. Shades are entirely absent. The wall finishes on the lower floor are of rough finish plaster and the lighting fixtures either of wrought iron or old brass.

The Lauterburg & Oehler staff consists of W. C. Oehler, A. J. Lauterburg; Clement J. Ryan, embalmer; Orin Stein, amb.; Lamar L. Zink, amb.; Clarence Tomscheck, mechanic; Wm. A. Hall, Jr., accountant; Fred B. Hunt, organist and director of music; Doris Berry, centralist.

Briefly Told

Until tomorrow becomes yesterday, men will be blind to the good fortune of the present.

A Real Home

IN THE planning and arrangement of our funeral home, we have been guided by one main principle: to provide in this establishment all the comfort and privacy of a fine residence plus the added convenience of a building designed especially for the purpose.

When we remove the remains of a loved one from the shelter of the private home, it must be to a place where the same reverent, dignified atmosphere is maintained. This is the yardstick by which we measure our facilities, and nothing less will satisfy us.

Bereaved families find our mortuary to be indeed a "second home"—a place where their privacy is respected and their every need anticipated during a trying time.

PERSONALS

Here comes the news—hope it will bring some things you would choose. So just laugh and sing.

The Sunshine club meet Thursday afternoon, for the last meeting until September. Mrs. John Rodewald will be the hostess.

Mrs. Louis Hagen returned home last of the week from her visit to friends at St. Louis.

Mr. Charles Peterson took his children, Miss Marian, and Warren and his wife to the city Sunday afternoon to witness a great ball game. Mr. Peterson's special enjoyment.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dickerson from Miami, Florida, who have been guests of his brother Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dickerson, plan to continue their travels, to visit California and the coast soon as the races are closed.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oepel, from Staeger have been guests of the Harry Garlands this past week.

Mrs. Dora Blumer accompanied by her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Howard, came out Sunday to visit her sister, Mrs. C. P. Draper and family. Mrs. Blumer is continuing her visit during this week.

Billie Miles had a happy week, with a friend exploring the wonders of an island in the river near Moline.

Mr. Rau, with his daughter and her husband from St. Louis, have been guests of his brother, Mr. George Rau and family this week.

Mrs. Raoul Peter and her son, Raoul Jr. left last week Saturday to spend some time with her sister at Reno, Nevada. The threat of hay fever and asthma are the force impelling her to go. Later she plans to visit Los Angeles. We trust Mrs. Peter may find immediate relief from her sufferings.

Mrs. Otto Yeager from Detroit is the guest of her husband's sister, Mrs. H. M. Blume, this week.

Miss Minnie Breese, who is a graduate of the St. Francis hospital, Evanston, will be at home Saturday, for a two week's vacation.

Miss Kealey is spending her vacation with Mrs. Huldah (Lorenzen) Both and her family at South Haven, Mich.

Mr. Frank Dobbins was severely hurt last week while assisting in moving a large tree. The ligaments of one of his arms were bruised and torn, a most painful injury.

Mr. Charles Taege, with his daughter, Miss Edna Taege, and grand daughter Dorothy, went on a motor trip to visit relatives in Iowa last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jirak of Kensington road, have gone on a two-week's vacation trip to visit friends in her old home in Southern Illinois.

Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Biele entertained a group of her cousins, in their home Monday night; among them were Mr. and Mrs. George J. Rau, with his brother and daughter from St. Louis.

She Reduced 38 Pounds The Safe Way

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for 1 month and I think they are wonderful. I am 32 years old and 5 ft. 2 in. tall. I was very fat. I weighed 165 lbs. and now I weigh 127 lbs. and feel fine. If I let up taking the Salts one morning I feel lazy and heavy." Mrs. Florence Loftus, Boston.

This is just one of hundreds of letters we get every month—Kruschen not only causes you to lose fat but while you are losing it you gain in health—in vivaciousness—you lose fat where fat is most prominent and at the same time keep stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning naturally.

Ferd. B. Wendt or any drug store in the world will sell you a jar of Kruschen for a trifling sum—take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning—go light on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets. But for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen's Salts—imitations are numerous. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Marcia Ruth Martens accompanied Mrs. Haupt and her daughter Dorothy to the Girl Scout camp, at Edgerton, Wisconsin. Jane Martens will stay at home, a good scout too, taking care of father with carefully prepared menu and all.

Mrs. W. A. Miles will be artist guest at Radio Station WCFL, Friday, 10:45, this week, in the evening hour. Accompanied by the orchestra she will sing, "True Love," "Paradise," "Carissima," and "Kiss Waltz." Be sure you listen in to hear this, our talented home artist.

Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Waide are expected to arrive in Arlington Heights early this week. They are on their way back home from a visit to Mr. Waide's relatives in the east. Mrs. Waide, our own "Allie" Fairchild, has many relatives and friends here who are always glad to see her cheery face, and to hear her sing.

Last Thursday, Mrs. Otto Heiman arranged with members of the Sunshine club to meet at her home on North Dunton avenue, and give their dear friend and member of the club, Mrs. Raoul Peter, a real sunshine, cheerio, on her trip out west. Though it was all "Sunshine," yet there was a bit of sadness, thinking of the long distance of Mrs. Peter's journey, and the length of her stay. All join in hoping she may be rested and relieved of her suffering and return to us, all well and her dear helpful self again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miles recently entertained a number of their musical friends in their pleasant home on Derbyshire Lane, Stonegate. Among their guests was the well known Madame Lillie of Milan, Italy.

Mrs. Arthur Schmitz and Miss Henriette J. Kohn drove to Wilmette to attend the funeral of Mr. Wm. Gay, Monday, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Mayer, with his cousins, the Lenners, drove up to Lake Geneva, and Lake Como, taking the marvelous scenic beauty of this Switzerland of America; all so near Mrs. Mayer's old home, where she had never dreamed of its nearness. Nor was it so easily reached years ago, when autos were unknown. The Mayer's little son, who had been having a two week's vacation with his grandmother, Mrs. Lauring, at her farm home, came home with them.

Carl Johnson, energetic and ready to do the work at hand, writes home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Johnson and family. If they think they are having hot weather, come out where he is, working on Hoover Dam, doing mason work down in the tunnel, with O' ever so many degrees over the 100 mark—heat think of it—and blame it to Hoover!

Word was received here last Sunday of the death of Mr. William M. Gay, in his home at Wilmette. Mr. Gay had been ill for some time. He with his family were residents of Arlington Heights for some time in other years. His daughters and Mrs. Gay are left to mourn. The daughters are Blanche Gay, at home with her mother, Margaret, Mrs. Webster, and Jessie, Mrs. Campbell. The funeral was held Monday afternoon. The burial was in Maine cemetery.

Sunday night, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weide and their daughter and three sons, got home from a delightful outing, enjoyed through the kindness of Mrs. Weide's cousin. This was a delight to the children who had never been near the waters, making Lake Zurich, the fish and all the "waves and wonders" a new world to them.

The drawing for the quilt made by the Auxiliary of Merie Guild, Post No. 208 the American Legion will take place at Frannburg's Ice Cream parlor, Friday, July 29.

The Effingham county old residents are busy planning for their annual reunion and picnic, to be held in August.

RED WINGS BEAT WILMETTE

Getting a 3 run lead in the first inning then losing it by some poor fielding, only to regain it in the last 3 innings by some timely hitting the Red Wings took a loosely played game from Wilmette by the score of 9 to 5. Although the game was a rather loosely played one, it was nevertheless a game that neither team could hold a lead for more than 3 innings until the Red Wings went into the lead in the 7th. The Red Wings started out with a 3 run attack in the 1st inning on 4 hits, 2 of which were doubles by Willert and Bolte.

Wilmette didn't do anything until the 4th when they scored 4 runs on 2 hits and 2 errors by Bendic after 2 were out, to give them the lead by a score of 4 to 3. In the 5th Wilmette added 1 more run on 2 hits and a stolen base.

After the 1st inning the Red Wings got on 3 hits in the next 4 innings, but in the 6th with the score 5 to 3 against them, they put 3 runs across the plate on 33 hits and 4 stolen bases. Bolte starting off with a double, Diedrich walked and both runners advanced on a double steal, Zahouski got a single to score both men stole 2nd and came home on a hit by Peanuts, giving the Red Wings lead by the score of 6 to 5. In the 7th the Red Wings added 3 more runs, with Brodman getting a hit, stole 2nd, went to 3rd when Willert was safe on an error, Bolte was safe on a fielders' choice, and Bordan was out at the plate on the play, Diedrich walked, tripping the bases. Mezariss got a triple to clear the bases, and put the Red Wings out in front by the score of 9 to 5. After the 5th, Wilmette got but 1 hit in each of the succeeding innings, but were never in a position to score, the game thus ending with the Red Wings on the long end of a 9 to 5 score. Mazarris the Red Wings new first baseman made his debut with the Red Wings auspiciously by getting a single, a double, and a triple with the bases loaded, knocking in 5 runs, and scoring 1 to account for two thirds of the runs made by the Red Wings. Brodman with 4 hits in 5 times to bat, knocking in 2 runs and scoring 1 joined with Mezariss in sharing the honors of bringing victory home for the Red Wings. On next Sunday Glen Elynn will be the opponents of the Red Wings at the south side grounds.

CANADA LIQUOR CONTROL TOLD BY CANADIAN

ing went up 72 per cent; spirituous liquors 80 per cent. The more beer people drink, the more whiskey they want."

Big Business Favors Canada Systems

The capitalists in the liquor business are better pleased with the government being in the liquor business than they were under the license system, Mr. Spence indicated; for now the Government fosters and protects their business and their profits. Any Canadian fighting the liquor business now in Canada finds himself fighting the his own government; and temperance reform is therefore more difficult to achieve than ever. He pictured the flag "Old Glory" flying over the saloon, and Government operated money carrying the motto "In God We Trust," and then pleaded with his audience to work to see that the temperance workers in Canada might not have the overwhelming discouragement of seeing America go wet. The states would follow the nation into the we column, much as the provinces followed the Canadian nation, after loss of support by the national background, he indicated. Applause followed.

Jubilee Singers Feature

Extraordinary concerts were given Sunday afternoon and evening by Mundy's Jubilee Singers, a chorus of 60 trained negro voices; they will also appear afternoon and evening next Sunday at the same place, the auditorium at the Des Plaines Camp Grounds. Such extraordinary singing has seldom, if ever been heard in this vicinity. Solos, choruses and feature numbers, including many of the most interesting negro spirituals, were given, and applauded with greatest enthusiasm. They are most generous with numbers.

A debate was Sunday afternoon, by Judge David of the Superior Court, for the wets, who asked why not pass a law against private drinking, and Judge Bruce, head of the law school of Northwestern university, for the dries, who maintained that the people have the right to legislate against any nuisance they see fit. Bishop S. P. Spreng, Naperville, of the Evangelical Association spoke for prohibition Sunday morning.

Great Crowd Greets Billy Sunday

Before a crowd of about 3500 that jammed the huge auditorium and gathered thick inside every open window and door Monday night, Rev. Wm. A. (Billy) Sunday went into action and let loose his rapid fire vocal artillery for over an hour, while the crowd cheered wildly and again as he lambasted the liquor interests and other interests seeking to restore the traffic in America. By a beer tax, millionaires are trying to unload the tax burden still more on the backs of the poor, he charged.

Mr. Sunday's climax was when he lined up a group of boys on the platform as specimens of "raw material" for the "gin mills," then described the loathsome drunken, human wrecks that make up the "finished product" of the traffic.

Prof. Paul Douglas, Economist of Chicago University, and Bishop Richardson of the M. E. church were the headliners Tuesday.

Wednesday, Editor C. V. Gregory of the Prairie Farmer; C. L. Hill, president of the National Dairy Council; and Dr. C. L. Stewart, chief in Agricultural Economics, University of Illinois; and R. E. Corradini, of the Irving Fisher Foundation for Narcotic Research, were speakers.

Weed Killing Chemical Sets Overalls Afire

Gus Lindstrom, who is employed on the William Webb farm north of Barrington, was severely burned about his arms and legs late last Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Lindstrom had spent the day eradicating thistles by using a solution of sodium chlorate, and some of the compound had gotten on his clothing and dried. When he rubbed his hand over his overalls the friction ignited the chemical. He was severely burned before the fire could be extinguished. His injuries were treated at the Barrington General Hospital.

THEATRE SHOWS FOR NEXT WEEK

Giant Radio Show at the Chicago

The biggest, finest, most entertaining radio show Chicago has ever known will be seen on the stage of the Chicago Theater Friday.

For this event the Chicago Theater is bringing back the most popular radio entertainers of the day. The Mills Brothers are just four men and a guitar—yet they sound like a whole jazz band.

Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd, radio's funniest comedians will also be here with their bright and original humor.

Sylvia Froos, beautiful song bird of the air and Arthur Tracy, the street singer are more big names for this show.

More names are being added for this show and it promises to be one of the greatest of this or any other year.

On the screen is the glorified romance, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" featuring Marion Nixon and Ralph Bellamy.

The plot deals with the experiences of an imaginative, impulsive girl who leaves her beloved Sun-nybrook to live with her elderly maiden aunts, the very pillars of respectability in a Maine village. Her penchant for adopting everybody's troubles wins the immediate disapproval of the aunts but strikes at the heart and sympathy of Dr. Adam Ladd, and befriends her from the first day in the village.

"Skyscraper Souls" on Oriental Screen

"Skyscraper Souls," a spectacular drama in which the lives of thousands of persons who work in New York's largest building serve as a kaleidoscope background, will open at the Oriental Theater Friday with Warren William and Maureen O'Sullivan heading an outstanding cast.

All the action of "Skyscraper Souls" takes place in and around a replica of the world's tallest building.

The plot involves a fight for the ownership of the skyscraper, an attempted looting of the safe of a diamond merchant, frenzied circulation by a pool working in the stock brokerage office of the skyscraper and all the big and little romances, the schemes and rivalries that affect the lives of those who toil in the building.

On the stage will be Eddie Peabody, wizard of the banjo, and his happiness show. A load of entertainers have been especially selected for this show.

Requel Torres in "Person at Tivoli"

Raquel Torres, beautiful screen star, will appear in person on the Tivoli Theater stage Friday in a novel stage show "Malibu Beach."

Miss Torres won fame in "White Shadows of the South Seas," "The Sea Bat" and many other pictures. Others in the show are Renee Torres, Raquel's beautiful sister; Bernice and Walker, Gilbert Brothers, Henri Therrien and the Sunkist beauties.

On the screen is the picture that all Chicago is raving about, "The Red Headed Woman" which co-stars Jean Harlow and Chester Morris.

Lionel Barrymore on Uptown Screen

Lionel Barrymore comes to the screen of the Uptown Theater Friday, in what is said to be his greatest picture, "Washington Masquerade."

Lionel Barrymore is seen as a small town lawyer who becomes United States Senator. The complications and romance that happen during his stay in Washington makes this one of the most exciting and likable pictures of the year.

Karen Morley, Nils Asther and William Collier Sr. ably support Mr. Barrymore.

President Signs Home Loan Bill; Inflation Rider

The Home Loan Bank bill, asked of Congress by President Hoover to stimulate building and owning of homes was signed by him Friday last week. It carries a Glass-Steagall currency inflation amendment permitting an inflation of the currency to the extent of about a billion dollars.

Eight to twelve discount banks are to be set up in different parts of the country, the first capital to be supplied through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

These discount banks are to act in a similar manner to the Federal Farm Loan banks for farms. Savings banks, building and loan associations and insurance companies will be eligible for membership in the general system.

"The purpose of the system," President Hoover has stated, "is both to meet the present emergency and to build home ownership on more favorable terms than exist today."

Loans will be made up to 40 per cent of the value of the property.

Running Thresher Is As Much An Art As In Bygone Days

Threshing may not be the event that it once was, but the proper operation of the threshing machine is as much an art as it was in "the good old days," in the opinion of A. L. Young, of the department of agricultural engineering, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

"All parts of the machine should be operated at about the speed recommended by the manufacturer. Bundles should go in head first, and the rate of feeding should be uniform. In general, as few concaves should be used as will take the grain out of the heads. These concaves should be kept well up and should be properly centered with respect to the cylinder teeth. As little straw as possible should be chewed up."

"The blast should be kept strong enough on the front of the chaffer, or upper sieve, to break up the layer of chaff as it leaves the grain pan. This permits the grain to work down through the upper sieve more quickly and gives the lower sieve a better chance to do a good job of cleaning. Lifting all of the lighter material with the blast makes it possible to keep the upper sieve closed enough that all coarse chaff is carried over. This in turn permits keeping the lower sieve closed slightly more and therefore gives better cleaning."

"Tailings should consist mainly of unthreshed heads and some of the heavier chaff that of necessity passes through the chaffer extension with them. There should be very little threshed grain in the tailings. This is particularly important in the case of wheat or any other grain that is likely to be cracked by going through the cylinder a second time. Care also should be taken to see that the weed screen does not become clogged."

"Rapid and good threshing can not be done unless the grain is reasonably dry. On the other hand, the conditions under which threshing must be done vary a great deal. How well these varying conditions are met depends largely upon the knowledge, skill and alertness of the machine operator."

Is This a Statesman? Reforestation Plan Examined with Figures

In the course of an hour-long speech accepting the Democratic nomination for President, Franklin D. Roosevelt brought forward just one plan for the alleviation of unemployment, a plan which he characterized as "a very hopeful and important means of relief, both for the unemployed and agriculture." The plan proposed converting many acres of marginal and unused land into timber land through reforestation.

The governor estimated that through putting this plan into effect employment would be given to 1,000,000 men, and that the project would be self-sustaining "by the fact that the growth of tremendous crops (of trees) will provide adequate security for the investment." The Governor referred to this plan as "a very definite program for providing employment. I am doing it today in the state of New York and I know that the Democratic party can do it successfully in the Nation."

The proposal of Governor Roosevelt attracted the attention of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde because he has been in the business somewhat of reforestation, so he took out his pencil and began to figure. He had learned from experience that one man can plant about one acre, or something near a thousand trees a day. A million men, therefore, could plant about 1,000,000,000 trees in a day. But all the nurseries in America, he discovered whether publicly or privately owned, do not possess 1,000,000,000 seedling forest trees. They probably do not possess 200,000,000.

But suppose there were 300,000,000 seedling forest trees available, the Secretary figured 1,000,000 men could plant them in about three hours. And so when cold figures are applied to the Democratic nominee's hot plan it isn't so hot after all.

Foreseeing that Governor Roosevelt might complain of this criticism as unfair on the score that forestry means more than mere tree planting, Secretary Hyde proceeded to do some more figuring. He found that the number of men permanently employed by the U. S. Forest Service is 2,800. There are 3,400 others who are employed on a six months basis. These 6,200 men care for 160,000 acres—or about one man to 25,000 acres. On that basis 1,000,000 men could care for 25,000,000 acres—or twelve times the entire land area of the United States. And that doesn't sound so hot either.

But the Secretary went on further with his figuring. He discovered that the forestry program of New York, which Governor Roosevelt so enthusiastically boasts about, calls for reforestation of 1,000,000 acres over a period of fifteen years at a cost of $20,000,000. It employs 72 men on a permanent basis and enough occasional employees to equal the hours of 207 more permanent employees. Thus the Governor's "Eureka" reduces itself as a matter of permanent employment to 279 men.

But the Secretary goes on with his figuring. From the best data available, he finds that there may be 100,000,000 acres of good marginal and abandoned lands east of the Mississippi River. They would have to be purchased, titles cleared and incumbrances paid before a tree could be planted. From one to three years would have to elapse before seedling trees would be available. In acquiring titles to so vast an area, counties and large areas would be disorganized, taxation units destroyed, schools and roads closed. To do it on an emergency basis would throw more people out of their homes than the New York Governor could employ. The cost on the basis of New York's program would be around $2,000,000,000, and the men employed on the basis of New York's experience would be 27,900. The "tremendous crop" which the Governor anticipates would be from 25 to 60 years in maturing. In the meantime the debt would have doubled or tripled. The added supply of forest produce would have depressed the market to "nothing flat."

So the Democratic nominee's first and, up to this, his only project for both unemployment and agriculture relief lasted less than a week, and lies now as a thoroughly deflated as a toy balloon would be which had received both barrels from a number 10 shot gun.

Has Iowa Discovered A Depression Cure?

We cannot expect to come out of the depression until we come out of our hiding places of living and take up the business of living again. Our present troubles are largely mental. The real catastrophe is not actually happened to the world, but what the world fears might happen to it.

This truth is gradually dawning upon the people. We see encouraging signs of a coming change in sentiment from pessimism to optimism. Individuals and scattered groups are taking the lead in urging a return to right thinking and to a normal confident attitude.

We have the report of a group of Mitchellville, Iowa farmers who have started a movement to encourage people to buy from $1000 to $5000 worth of farm equipment. This is in no sense an appeal to thoughtless people generally with the wisdom of buying now such goods as they can afford now.

For some time the farmers in the region of Mitchellville, Iowa, have been discussing the fact that many persons are refraining from buying because they fear their views of their neighbors, relatives or employers. A statement of their views said:

"There is as much or more money in the country now as there was in the boom times of 1928 and 1929. There are hundreds of thousands of people in the United States who want automobiles, home furnishings, clothing, furniture, business equipment and the like and have the cash with which to buy."

"They are not buying because they feel they are doing the popular thing when they use worn-out articles instead of buying new ones. Or they fear losing their jobs, or having their incomes reduced."

"When this condition is corrected, business will improve immediately and we will benefit along with people in other industries."

Is This a Statesman? Reforestation Plan Examined with Figures

In the course of an hour-long speech accepting the Democratic nomination for President, Franklin D. Roosevelt brought forward just one plan for the alleviation of unemployment, a plan which he characterized as "a very hopeful and important means of relief, both for the unemployed and agriculture." The plan proposed converting many acres of marginal and unused land into timber land through reforestation.

The governor estimated that through putting this plan into effect employment would be given to 1,000,000 men, and that the project would be self-sustaining "by the fact that the growth of tremendous crops (of trees) will provide adequate security for the investment." The Governor referred to this plan as "a very definite program for providing employment. I am doing it today in the state of New York and I know that the Democratic party can do it successfully in the Nation."

The proposal of Governor Roosevelt attracted the attention of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde because he has been in the business somewhat of reforestation, so he took out his pencil and began to figure. He had learned from experience that one man can plant about one acre, or something near a thousand trees a day. A million men, therefore, could plant about 1,000,000,000 trees in a day. But all the nurseries in America, he discovered whether publicly or privately owned, do not possess 1,000,000,000 seedling forest trees. They probably do not possess 200,000,000.

But suppose there were 300,000,000 seedling forest trees available, the Secretary figured 1,000,000 men could plant them in about three hours. And so when cold figures are applied to the Democratic nominee's hot plan it isn't so hot after all.

Foreseeing that Governor Roosevelt might complain of this criticism as unfair on the score that forestry means more than mere tree planting, Secretary Hyde proceeded to do some more figuring. He found that the number of men permanently employed by the U. S. Forest Service is 2,800. There are 3,400 others who are employed on a six months basis. These 6,200 men care for 160,000 acres—or about one man to 25,000 acres. On that basis 1,000,000 men could care for 25,000,000 acres—or twelve times the entire land area of the United States. And that doesn't sound so hot either.

But the Secretary went on further with his figuring. He discovered that the forestry program of New York, which Governor Roosevelt so enthusiastically boasts about, calls for reforestation of 1,000,000 acres over a period of fifteen years at a cost of $20,000,000. It employs 72 men on a permanent basis and enough occasional employees to equal the hours of 207 more permanent employees. Thus the Governor's "Eureka" reduces itself as a matter of permanent employment to 279 men.

But the Secretary goes on with his figuring. From the best data available, he finds that there may be 100,000,000 acres of good marginal and abandoned lands east of the Mississippi River. They would have to be purchased, titles cleared and incumbrances paid before a tree could be planted. From one to three years would have to elapse before seedling trees would be available. In acquiring titles to so vast an area, counties and large areas would be disorganized, taxation units destroyed, schools and roads closed. To do it on an emergency basis would throw more people out of their homes than the New York Governor could employ. The cost on the basis of New York's program would be around $2,000,000,000, and the men employed on the basis of New York's experience would be 27,900. The "tremendous crop" which the Governor anticipates would be from 25 to 60 years in maturing. In the meantime the debt would have doubled or tripled. The added supply of forest produce would have depressed the market to "nothing flat."

So the Democratic nominee's first and, up to this, his only project for both unemployment and agriculture relief lasted less than a week, and lies now as a thoroughly deflated as a toy balloon would be which had received both barrels from a number 10 shot gun.

VEGETABLE GARDENERS MAKE TOUR

Corn Borer Menace Discussed; Inspect Plots

All promises of making this year's Outing-Tour sponsored by the Cook County Truck Gardeners Association unique and different, were fulfilled to the letter. Joining hands with the Illinois State Vegetable Growers Association, whose members came from Rockford, Peoria, Dixon, Sterling, and other points south, the truck gardeners met at the Cook County Experiment Station at 9:30 a. m. Sat., July 23.

Assembling in a shady spot the first 45 minutes were devoted to a business meeting, Mr. E. P. Lewis opening the meeting with appropriate introductory remarks. He introduced Mr. Lee A. Somers, of the Department of Horticulture of the University of Illinois, who reported on the results of their experiments with asparagus raising. Mr. Lewis then explained in brief the results and methods employed to determine the effectiveness of various commercial fertilizers used with or without manure and cover crops in their efforts to learn whether it will be possible to substitute all commercial fertilizers for manure.

Mr. L. H. Shropshire, State Entomologist, whose work deals with the study of onion thrip, cucumber beetles, leaf-hoppers and other insect pests, explained the various methods of spraying and kinds of material used in combating not only the insects but diseases as well.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the crowd divided into two groups and the inspection of the field followed. Mr. Lewis conducted the first group explaining as he went, Mr. Somers in charge of the second. Twelve o'clock noon saw the crowd on the road enroute to the Vaughan's Greenhouses at Western Springs. Two long tables, seating 150 people were waiting all ready to receive the lunch baskets and for the next hour or more, while hungry appetites were appeased, a jolly, sociable time was enjoyed. Hot coffee and iced tea were served by the Vaughan's Company, and this act of courtesy and hospitality was sincerely appreciated.

An interesting and delightful program of impromptu after-lunch speeches was the next feature. Mr. August Geweke introduced first, Mr. Phil. S. Haner, of the State Dept. of Agriculture who addressed the assemblage on the subject of the Corn Borer. Due to lack of funds, the federal cornborer quarantine service has been discontinued which means there is no protection against the importation of this pest at present and the cornbelt states are endangered. An embargo seems to be the only recourse and the united cooperation of individuals and growers' organizations is necessary to assure full protection. A resolution was adopted that the two organizations go on record as being in favor of the embargo.

Mr. Haner introduced David Hunter of Rockford, State Representative who expressed his pleasure in being able to join the tour and spoke on the proposed appropriation to help Illinois farmers.

The officers of the Illinois State Vegetable Growers Association were next introduced, Mr. Emmet Orr of Rockford, president and Mr. John Wenke, of Peoria, secretary. Both gentlemen responded, Mr. Orr stating that as growers, there are so many problems to contend with that the need of a strong state organization is clearly shown. He urged every one to put his shoulder to the wheel and do his part to help the cause.

After lunch, a visit to the flower gardens was made, Mr. W. E. Pickering, manager of the greenhouses in charge. An extended trip thru the vast nursery of the Vaughan Company came next. Mr. Robert Becker, manager as host, extending a hearty welcome.

On behalf of the crowd, Mr. Geweke expressed thanks and appreciation to the Vaughan's Seed Company for their kindness, courtesy, service and hospitality and late in the afternoon the cars were again headed toward Des Plaines, where flying inspection trips were made through the farms of Louis Schroeder, Louis Wettermann, Henry Karnatz and George Koelner.

The weather was perfect and nothing was lacking to make the day enjoyable as well as interesting and educational for all; and voicing the sentiment of Mr. Orr, it was too bad that every grower in the county could not be present.

Higher Hog Prices Mean the Most to Skillful Feeders

Rising hog prices have brought new cheer to all, but they will mean more to those farmers who feed with the most skill and care, according to a new circular, "Feeding Hogs on Illinois Farms," which has just been released by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Feed makes up from 70 to 90 per cent of the total cost of producing pork, depending upon the price of grain, it is pointed out by the author, W. E. Carroll. He is chief in swine husbandry at the college. The swine grower who expects to make maximum profits therefore does not underestimate the importance of suitable rations and proper methods of feeding, the circular points out.

Hogs may have a reputation as eaters, but the feeding of them is a unique problem, Carroll says. The small capacity of the digestive tract of swine and their capacity for rapid growth handicap them in utilizing roughages and other feeds of high fiber content. This is especially true of animals that are on full feed, such as fattening pigs and sows that are suckling pigs. Even when they are not being fed for high production, swine can not utilize coarse feeds extensively.

Judging the value of feeds for swine, farm grains that are available for feeding, the importance of protein supplements, feeding the breeding herd, feeding young pigs, the value of forage crops for swine, supplying mineral deficiencies and other feeding problems are among the topics discussed in the circular.

"Protein is most often the limiting factor in the ration of swine. This is because common farm grains and many of the by-product feeds carry too low a percentage of protein for best results. As a general rule, supplements of animal origin, such as dairy by-products, tankage and fish meal, have a higher supplementing value than materials of plant nature
